OBJECTIVE

Independent media has suffered severe pressure in countries like Pakistan, Iran & Afghanistan due to oppressive regimes and the religious right. Rabwah Times plans to empower young individuals from minority communities through civic journalism. We will use credible on the ground sources embedded within these communities to produce factual news and digital content which will be published on our website and shared on social media. The website will also connect the city of Rabwah, its residents and the business community through information and idea sharing. It will use graphics, images, videos, website and social media to reach among other minority communities in Pakistan and beyond. We will also enhance existing online marketing strategies and expand on them.

GOALS

The Free Press has an inherent responsibility to communicate important information to its citizens / readers in a timely and consistent manner. Publishing an independent newspaper enables residents to establish public awareness about the city, community and the issues faced by its residents. The newspaper will act as a tool for communicating vital and timely information from not only local areas but also report on National & International issues including Business, politics, Sports, Arts, Culture, Events, Technology & Travel. The initiative will cultivate an engaged community which can develop and organize itself on an international scale through social media and make an impact on issues that matter to the community.
